Managing Your Colostomy

via North Central OK Ostomy Outlook, edited by B. Brewer, UOAA 1/2011

The type of output produced by a colostomy varies according to the site at which the colostomy was constructed. Since the colon absorbs water from the bowel contents, the more colon left intact during surgery, the more solid and predictable the discharge is likely to be.

An ascending colostomy is likely to produce frequent, soft stools with unpredictable timing.

A transverse colostomy usually produces soft to pasty stools, still somewhat unpredictable but less frequent than the ascending.

A descending or sigmoid colostomy can be expected to produce one or more firm, well-formed stools a day on a fairly regular schedule.

With all types of colostomies, the use of a skin barrier around the stoma is recommended in order to protect the skin and provide a leak-proof seal with the pouch. Most often, an ascending or transverse colostomy requires a drainable pouch because frequent pouch emptying may be necessary. With a descending or sigmoid colostomy, a closed-end or drainable pouch can be worn since the stool is usually well formed. Colostomy irrigation is simply an enema through the stoma. Irrigation is optional for the person with a descending or sigmoid colostomy who wishes to empty the bowel at a certain time each day.

New Board Member!

Please welcome our new Board Member Suzanne Hill from the Northwest Group. Ms. Hill was recently approved by the Board to replace Anne Mueller after her resignation. Ms. Hill will complete Ms. Mueller’s term in office.

Central Group News

On Monday March 21st, the Ostomy Association of the Houston Area celebrated our 55th Anniversary with a ‘Little Italy’ buffet dinner with Italian cream cake for dessert catered by The French Corner. We had 34 at the meeting, several of whom were from the Northwest Satellite Group who were attending the Anniversary Celebration in place of their normal meeting. We also had two new prospective members attending, one of whom is scheduled to have colostomy surgery in April.

Our Newsletter Editor, Patti Suler, who belongs to the Northwest Satellite Group, gave a very interesting presentation on the various things we can do as volunteers and sent around a sign up sheet to have our members state what things they are already doing, and commit to volunteering in other ways. Some examples are doing the CCFA Take Steps walkathon in May to raise money for Crohn’s and Colitis research, creating visitor packets for new attendees, signing up to bring refreshments to one of the meetings, helping distribute or organize the donated ostomy supplies we get, being a visitor trainee, helping with Newsletter archive indexing, being a telephone coordinator, and various other things that might be helpful to the group that you attend. Patti is the OAHAP team captain for the CCFA Take Steps walkathon that will be taking place on Saturday May 14. Registration starts at 4:00 p.m.; there are eight in the team so far, but there were 11 that said they were going to sign up on the list that was passed around at the Anniversary meeting. The website where you can join the team or donate is: www.cctakesteps.org (Select “Find a Walker” and then enter Patti Suler or Ostomy Association of the Houston Area.)

Our April meeting for the Central Group will be on Monday, April 18th and we will be having a presentation by Kenneth Lambert who is a Funeral Negotiator; he is somebody who makes sure that funeral homes don’t take advantage of a family when they are very vulnerable after a death in their family.

Hope to see you all in April.

President, Ostomy Association of the Houston Area

Baytown Group News

Baytown Support Group had a good turnout in March with Roundtable on the Agenda.

With March being Colorectal Cancer Awareness month, Cindy reviewed the American Cancer Society’s Five Common Myths about Colorectal Cancer with the group:

- Myth—Colorectal Cancer is a man’s disease. Colorectal cancer is as common among women as men. Each year 150,000 are diagnosed & 50,000 die from the disease.

- Myth—Colorectal cancer cannot be prevented. Colorectal cancer almost always starts with a polyp. If found early, it can be removed and stop the cancer before it starts. Lower your chances of getting colorectal cancer by staying at a healthy weight, being physically active, limit your alcohol intake and eat a lot of fruits and vegetables, whole grains and less red or processed meat.

- Myth—African-Americans are not at risk for colorectal cancer. African American men and women are diagnosed and die from colorectal cancer at higher rates than any other US racial or ethnic group. Reason for this is not yet understood.

- Myth—Age doesn’t matter when it comes to getting colorectal cancer. More than 90% of colorectal cancer cases are seen in people age 50 and older.

- Myth—It’s better not to get tested for colorectal cancer because it’s deadly anyway. Colorectal cancer is often highly treatable. If found and treated early, 5-year survival is about 90%.

Additional information for review included the 2011 Report Card for Colorectal Cancer with grading criteria for screening legislation (Texas received a “B”) and the “20 most frequently asked questions about Colon Cancer” from the American Society for Gastrointestinal Endoscopy.

We are anticipating a visit from Laura Weldon, exercise physiologist, in April and a presentation on Hernias in May with Dr. Boutros Kahla. Won’t you join us?

Baytown Ostomy Support Group meets the 1st Monday of each month at 6:00 p.m. in the Community Room in the Lobby at San Jacinto Methodist Hospital.

Next meeting: Monday, April 4th @ 6:00 p.m.
